

Ever since I made the switch to Windows 7, my computer has been plagued by viruses left and right. Viruses are all over the Internet these days. It seems like there is no escape, even if your device is operating with several layers of protection (and it's probably not!). What I've found works best is AutoCAD Anti-Virus Protection.exe. This program created by Cadalyst can scan for malware that uses old tricks like keyloggers and rootkits to sneak into your laptop or desktop PC undetected—meaning you won't get stuck with an expensive repair bill! The only downside? It only works on Windows XP - 8. 1. This program is available as a free ZIP file, and it doesn't work on any version of Windows since XP. However, it is good at detecting most viruses and malware by simply scanning the memory. CADalyst Anti-Virus software can detect most viruses and malware by using a built-in virus scanner. It also monitors your clipboard and processes that occur after starting or closing CAD programs to tell you which programs have been shut down and might be at risk of infection by malware at any time. $10 per year subscription fee will run for one year, but they offer a 30 day money back guarantee with the purchase of this software.

There is currently no information on the author of this software or where to download versions for Windows 7 or later operating systems, but there are reviews on the Cadalyst website.
